It affords me a great pleasure to welcome you to another exciting and information filled edition of our Journal - Achievers Journal of Scientific Research. I wish to acknowledge and appreciate the editorial crew for a job well done. Without them, this journal may not have witnessed such immense changes and improvement. The journal has undergone substantial changes, become more rigorous in the quality of the publications with double blind peer review and selection process. Our hope is that the articles published in this journal will address issues of immense concern and contribution to Science and the world in general by reporting frontiers in different fields of Sciences.

We have also introduced a guest article, where an invited seasoned Professor in any area of pure and applied sciences is invited to give our readers insight into his area of specialty. In this issue, our guest writer is the renowned Professor M.A. Olade, an Economic Geologist. We gave him this honour for his contribution to the progress of this journal from inception. He was also the pioneer editor-in-chief for our dear journal.

As part of our strategy, we have concluded arrangements to index our journal in indexing houses such as Africa Journals Online (AJOL), Directory of Open Access Journal (DOAJ) and Google Scholar. We have also in the process of registering with ORCID to get digital object identifier (DOI) numbers for article published in our journal. In the near future we shall apply for indexing in SCOPUS. We intend to be more visible on line and embrace ground breaking research reports.

We also intend as part of our strategy to offer publication space to special and supplemental issues associated with conferences and is to broaden the scope of special issues to include papers that are not only presented at associated conferences.

For the success of AJOSR, we all, including myself and the Editorial team, depend on the authors and reviewers who determine the actual content of the Journal. We invite manuscript submissions from both established scholars and budding authors, and we ask for reviewers from different disciplines and academic standings. I truly believe in the power of a team work, and I am confident that only by working together can we improve the Journal's productivity and scholarly impact and achieve the best results.

I welcome on board the new and purposeful editorial team and wish us a huge success.
